Part 2 Detective story

Cold cases are like herpes. Everyone has them but no one will admit to it. Four months had gone by since that hot day in June and still no major leads in the case. He decided to visit the hashers again hoping to trip them up.

Luckily many of the same members were present as last time. Didn't these people have a life, he thought.

Although, he wasn't in a position to talk; his life was the job so he was yet again, on his way to divorce.

He was forbidden to have any contact with this group after the last time. There were a lot more hand cuffs, beer and shots and a lot less preferred behaviour according to the code of conduct handbook and his captain. Jesus Christ, he said to his new captain, how else are you supposed to get a confession?

According to the website Prelube was to happen at East 40th. As he entered the joint he noticed it looked like a senior's bingo parlor. He saw Broken Boner sitting nursing his Caesar waiting for others to join. Slippery When Wet, Don't Know Dick and Curb Crawler came in next, followed closely by Chips A Whore and Dripping Wet Gap. As soon as they noticed him they quickly changed tables. After Cum Honour and Cum liquor Snatch most of the usual suspects were present.

The Hare, Captain Piss up, not to be confused with “the Captain” was last to arrive. The only suspicious absence was Humidittities.

She came to the run but he wondered why she missed prelube. After the restraining order was issued he couldn't ask. His new captain was a first rate pain in the ass.

He noted Lady Mz Daizy, Cum See My Box, Pucker Sucker, Sir Cums A Lot, and a plaid dressed Premie join the group at circle up. Interestingly, one of the runners, Curb Crawler, did not stick around. Perhaps he had a guilty conscience. The detective did not follow him. After his last suspension for excessive use of force he didn't want to push it.

Once the run started it immediately broke into three groups; walkers, runners and lost runners. Since his 1999 Toyota Cressida could not go cross country and he didn't technically have a license after his DUI, he did not follow the first group too far.

Slippery When Wet, he thought, looked like she had wished she had joined the walkers while Pucker Sucker and Humidittities led the way. Crisscrossing back through the neighbourhood he spotted Drippy and Chips find their way to the beer near sign and then try to work their way backwards to find the other runners. They did not.

It's too bad his pending suspension wasn't hanging over his head otherwise he could have joined the walkers. Those people know how to party.

At the hash hold they all were joined together again. He kept his distance for fear of further sensitivity training. He took pictures for personal reasons and wrote in his diary instead.

Later at the circle up he observed Punishments for various transgressions but saw nothing that would help crack the case. He wasn't officially on the case at that point but a tip could really go a long way to get back in the game.

If his captain had not taken his badge and gun for suspected involuntary manslaughter this night could have gone a lot differently.

“Fuck the Captain”, he said to no one, as he slipped back into East 40th to enjoy a cold one.
