Pucker picked up this run as a last minute favour to Mobey's who decided work was more fun than hashing. Shame; he should get a life! Pucker even incorporated a margarita RG! Cinco de YumO!

The night started out with the RA forgetting to put punishment paraphernalia in the car so we had to drive back home to get it. We were late for prelubing but it was worth it! Even though I was planked with my triplet sisters, Ms Dazey and Cum See, I enjoyed the full hash experience. I also got the asshole punishment! Hmmm... Do you think the RA has it out for me?

When we arrived at East 40 the place was packed with old people. I know we're old but they were older. The bar looked like a place with a senior citizen's early bird special. They do have a good deal on steak sandwiches.

We were surprised by G-spot and Preemie who stopped in for a drink. We said a quick hello and good-bye before we were off again to the run start. Sunnybrook is such a good spot to start a run.

Our hares, both the same person, forgot or didn't bother to bring flour so she mimed the markings by hopping for an on on and twirling her foot for a check and so on. We all understood as this was not our first rodeo. We first ran through some alleys but we all knew we were headed for the trails. Although, we were a little surprised at the direction.

I had never run this way before. Straight for the creek. Yes sir, a shiggy run! Over the creek around a while then back over the creek. Rinse and Repeat. Other than the flame spurts, sinking sand and the ROUS'S it was great. We never saw another person. Maybe Westley and Buttercup could have lived happily ever after in the fire swamp.

We met the runners for the 007 (shaken not stirred) RG and then carried on on. Like all good things, this too had to come to an end. We circled up just in time for the squall. It's a good thing because it chased all the kids away who were playing at the park. Pucker received the sleeve, and as mentioned before, a few of us got the plank. TNT... look out!. Crash and I taught the group two new songs that will quickly be forgotten and then we headed for the ONON.

Surprisingly, we were the only old people in the joint. The place was deserted. Also, surprisingly Pucker came out for the ONON! Nice! I was riding high from all the punishment beer so, not really sure what happened there. I do believe buckets of beer were being purchased and fun was had by all! You should have been there. Next time!
