Run# 1249

Hare: Slippery When Wet

Start: Carnival cinema parking lot

On On: OJ's

Scribe: Sir Mobeys

Ok, so it really wasn't The White Trash Run, but looking around I am pretty sure any of the RDH3 runs could be labeled White Trash Runs. Make Hashing Great Again!

Pre-lube was at OJ's, where Grabbin Wood and I found TNT, Crash Test Rummy and Slippery When Wet gathered planning their escape from reality. Grabbin was good enough to negotiate a small gift certificate to pay for my liquor - I'd be lost without her.

Slippery left early, no doubt to ensure we had hash hold liquor. With her out of the way, Crash tried to convince us to just skip the run and stay at OJ's but we insisted that would not be proper hash behavior and off we went.

At Carnival we met up with Dick See, Cum See and Mount Me. Fuck Me, isn't it cute that their names rhyme!

There was some long-winded story about Pucker being unable to join us due to a twisted ankle that occurred while she was saving babies and puppies from a burning bus. What a hero!

To avoid the crime of urinating on trail, Crash, and then TNT, held up the start of our run by urinating at the circle up. Does a puddle sign mean we are on trail??

The run was lovely, with Dick See darting back and forth and running the whole trail while the rest of us kind of short-cutted here and there. It was refreshing to hear his voice in the distance. Running through leaves and bushes in the dark was much fun until

I heard a mighty crash, thud and gasps ahead. "Oh No" I thought, what has Crash done now? But to my surprise it was Slippery who decided to aggressively mount a fallen log, shocking us all. She is apparently OK but the tree will never be the same.

The hash hold eventually was found by the runners. And then Cum See and Mount Me appeared out of a nearby bush, looking flushed. It appeared that Mount Me had found a homeless man's discarded green sweater and was now sporting it with pride. Ugh.....

Hash hold was wonderful, with a vast selection of alcohol, chocolate, Nibbs and chips. Grabbin mentioned something about the shitty trail and had to rapidly depart with our hare to go pre-plan the OnOn. Sadly it was after she was gone that we realized she had the keys to the swill! Punishments will be forthcoming at a future run.

Crash and Slippery were kind enough to use hash hold liquor at the circle up to ensure we continued to get our required intake of alcohol. Dick See led a wonderful circle, with punishments and rewards all around. Cum See brought out some new songbooks, although some were apparently not well organized. We celebrated this by all singing different songs (at the same time) to punish her ears. But we also managed to attempt a couple of new songs, which was fun.

As we ended the circle the much lighter and relieved looking Grabbin showed up. Too late for swill, but just in time to get me to OJ's for the OnOn. OJ's was great, with everybody showing up and much food (mmmm, brussel sprouts), drink, lies and exaggerations. Thanks all and see you next week at the Pirate Run! Arrrrrrrrrrrr.

Out of town Hash Runs

October 26th Bow Valley H3 and CH3 Rocky Mountain H3

Are coming together to set an epic trail at Sibbald Lake Campground, K Country off Highway 68. Pretend like you are driving to Banff but take the Highway 68 exit prior to the Morley (Chief Chiniki - Mini Thni). Signed for Livingston Golf Course if you are paying attention.

Specifically, the start of the Deer Ridge Trail Parking. Here is a link to the start:

<https://maps.app.goo.gl/BNgcDiL4WPjmZT5A8>

Run starts at 2:00 pm. Joint effort between Calgary Rocky Mountain Hash and Bow Valley HHH. Not to be missed.

Bring refreshments and a chair. Warm clothes as it is October but weather forecast looks good!

Google Maps says this is about a 1 hour drive from Calgary, taking the exit to highway 68 off the Trans Canada west. Give yourself enough time as it is further than you think. Distance from Canmore is similar, taking Highway 40 South to 68 East
